Lodge's Motion to Kill the Populist's Amendment Defeated - An Inquiry Opposed by Senator Hill.

WASHINGTON: Feb. 24. - Indiana' junior Senator occupied the attention of the Senate for a short time to-day in speech advocating a pension for the widow of the late Walter Q. Gresham. The bill. which first proposed $200 a month, was amended so as to read $100, and in that shape was passed without opposition. The public interest in the Cuban question was shown by the crowds which came to the Senate galleries in anticipation of a continuance of the Cuban debate. The diplomatic gallery showed the largest representation since the session opened, the ministers of Brazil, Chile, Hawaii and several other countries being present, Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, occupied almost the enhad not concluded when the Senate adjourned. Mr. Gallinger, chairman of the committee on pensions, arose to a question of personal privilege when the Senate assembled, and in Migorous language denounced a publication in the New York Sun, purporting to report the action of the Senate in passing a number of private pension bills last Tuesday. It had been asserted that all records had been broken by the "Senate mill," 120 bills being passed in an hour, with little or no attention or consideration, few Senators being present, etc. Mr. Gallinger declared that this was a tissue of misrepresentation, sixty-seven bills were passed in two and threearter hours, and the total increase was $12,072 per year. The Senator was very caustic concerning the violation of journal-

Mr. Gallinger called up the bill granting a pension to the widow of the late Walter Q. Gresham, as brigadier general, at $200 per month, with an amendment reducing the allowance to $100.

TURPIE'E SPEECH. Mr. Turple spoke in support of the amended bill. He said the choice of Mr. Gresham as Secretary of State took the country by surprise. Mr. Gresham had never been known as a member of the Democratic party, and his choice was regarded as a marked departrue from established usage. He had stood at the front of the Republican party, and he now entered into Democratic associations, in which he had no close personal friendships. At the outset he was threatened with isolation, but his bon hommie won him personal friends, while his substantial ability and tact commanded re-spect. Mr. Turple spoke of the difficulties in the Hawaiian and Bering sea complications, and the tremendous labor involved therein, labor greater than that falling on the shoul-ders of any Secretary of State since the war. A love of justice was the absorbing motive of his life, political and social dis-tinctions disappearing before this controlling trait of his character. He was a nat-ural leader of men-on the field, in the judi-ciary, in the Cabinets of the two partiesas though nature had endowed him with some strange right of primogeniture. The Senator reviewed the Secretary's career as soldier, statesman and jurist.

At the conclusion of Mr. Turpie's remarks the bill as amended at $100 was passed with-The resolution of Mr. Lodge, directing the finance committee to inquire into the circumstances of bond issues during 1894-5-6,

He regarded the Lodge resolution as proper in form and giving due courtesy lations which would have a tendency to to the Secretary of the Treasury. But he secure to France a fair share of American did not consider it in the province of the Senate to investigate everything brought before the Senate. Requests for information were one thing, but formal "investigations" were a admitted to these faculties on an American more serious question. An "investigation" carried to the public an implication of irregularity. Before such an investigation was inaugurated there should be something definite and tangible. "It is not because there is a Democratic Secretary of the Treasury that I oppose this investigation," said Mr. Hill with great vigor, "I would oppose it if my worst political enemy oc-Treasury." and sensational newspaper cossip. It voiced the "wails and complaints of disappointed bond bidders." If this investigation is begun, then there will be no means of stop-ping an investigation of every trivial rumor. If there is anything in the recent bond sale requiring investigation, said Mr. Hill, there should be a formal resolution stating just what was charged, in order that the result might be compared with the expecta-tions. As the resolution stood now it was a "stab in the dark;" it was an attempt to insinuate what the author (Peffer) of the resolution was afraid to state boldly. Mr. Hill referred to a recent speech by Mr. Allen, in which the latter spoke of himself as a farmer. "Yes; a farmer and a Democrat," interjected Mr. Aken, jocularly. "If the Senator is no better farmer than he is a Democrat," responded Mr. Hill, "then I pity the crops raised in Nebraska." At this point 2 o'clock intervened, setting aside the bond resolutions and bringing up the Cuban question, which was the regular order. Mr. Morgan resumed his speech in support of the resolution to recognize the Cubans as belligerents. He reviewed the policy of the United States regarding Cuba since the time of President Adams. latter prophesied that within fifty years Cuba would be a State of the United States, and thereafter Webster, Clay, Jefferson and other statesmen uniformly urged the acquisition of Cuba by the United States. Mr. Morgan said the atrocities of the Spanish forces in controlling the Cubans were almost without parallel in history. In the last war not only had 13,000 Cubans been killed in battle, but 44,000 prisoners had been put to death. It was a most shocking holocaust. The Senator said he had paused wonderment to think that the United States had stood silently by at this awful slaughter of 44,000 prisoners, instead of moving, sword in hand, and driving the Spaniard from the island. Mr. Frye asked if this wonderful, shock-

GOOD AUTHORITY.

Mr. Morgan replied that it was historic deliberately written by a Spaniard, appearing in the American Encyclopedia under the title "Cuba." The present war, Mr. Morgan said, was but a renewal of the former one. General Gomez had returned to his command, and Cisnero, the insurgent President, returned to his task. The United States could go no further in its forbearance without a stain on its honor. It was the imperative duty of the day to declare a state of war existing. The great body of the native Cubans are in favor of an insurrection, although the bloody code of Weyler holds them in subjection. Spain has After reading the reports from United States consuls, Mr. Morgan said no one could doubt without impeaching our own consuls that the mass of Cubans were in sympathy with Gomez and Maceo, and that in the end the Cubans were certain to achieve their liberty. The Senator read a letter from Cuba, written, he said, by a thoroughly reliable authority. It described the gradual success of the Cubans and graphically explained the campaign methods of Gomez. The latter's force was placed by this authority at 17,000. The writer spoke of the lack of intelligent information by the Spanish officials at Havana, the Captain General knowing as little of existconditions as the President of the

Mr. Morgan said the bloody code of Gen. Weyler was without a parallel in modern warfare. It was aimed against women and children and innocent tradesmen. If this inhuman code was directed against one American citizen, said the Senator, then Spain would understand that seventy million people would visit soon upon her such a redress as would make the Cuban uprising a mere trifle in comparison. We had the right to insist that the rules of civilized warfare be observed. The Senator said the adoption of this resolution would not only apply to this rebellion, but also to the next and the next-for they would continue to come—and would be no-tice to Spain that belligerency would be accorded to those struggling for their free-dom. Mr. Morgan spoke until 5:15, and will continue his remarks to-morrow. SUBSTITUTE RESOLUTION.

Mr. White offered a substitute for the pending resolution as follows:

"Resolved, That the Senate contemplates with solicitude and profound regret the sufferings and destruction accompanying the civil conflict now in progress in Cuba. While the United States have not interfered and will not, unless their vital interests so demand, interfere with existing colonies and dependencies of any European government on this hemisphere, nevertheless, our people have never disguised for all those who struggle patriotically, as do the Cubans now in revolt, to exercise, maintain and preserve the right of self-government. Nor can we ignore our exceptional and close relations to Cuba, by reason of geographical proximity and our consequent grave interest in all questions affecting the control or well-being of that island. We ardently hope that the execu-tive department, to whose investigation and care our diplomatic relations have been committed, will, at an early date, find the facts to be such as to warrant the recognition of the belligerency of those who are maintaining themselves in Cuba in armed opposition to Spain, and that the nfluence and offices of the United States may be prudently, peacefully and effectively exerted to the end that Cuba may be enabled to establish a permanent government of her own choice. The House bill was passed, with amendments, to provide for the extension of the time within which suits may be brought to vacate and annul land patents. The time for beginning suits expires March 3 next, according to the present law, and the pill extends the time for five years. At 5:35 the Senate went into executive session, and soon thereafter adjourned un-

ONLY SEVEN DUCKS.

President Cleveland and His Party Had Poor Luck Shooting. WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.-President Cleveand and his guests, who spent the day at Quantico, Va., duck shooting, returned to Washington at 10 o'clock to-night. The party had very poor luck in their day's sport, owing to the moving ice in the river, and they brought back but seven ducks. Those who accompanied the President were Attorney-general Harmon, Coionel Wright Rivers, of the army, Dr. O'Reilly and Lighthouse Inspector Lamberton. The tender Maple, with the party on board, arrived off Quantico about 3:20 o'clock this morning and at once proceeded down the river and anchored at 4 o'clock in front of the small station of the Richmond. Fredericksburg & Potomac railroad, known as Wide Water. The water is very wide at that point, and the little station is situated in a cove, which makes it the best place for the steamer to anchor. The party went down on the invitation of Colonel Withers Walter to enjoy the shooting from his blinds. The Colonel and one of his guests,

The decoys were at once set and two men stationed on shore with a small boat to pick the ducks up as they were brought down, but their services were seldom required, for the reasons given

MAY ESCAPE PROSECUTION IN THE PEARL BRYAN MURDER CASE.

But Is Likely to Be Tried by Federal Authorities for Sending Obscene Matter Through the Mail.

AGAINST JACKSON AND WALLING,

And There Is Still Doubt Whether the Crime Was Committed in Ohio or Kentucky-May Smith a Fibber.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CINCINNATI, Feb. 24.—Sentiment has about spent itself and the way is clearing TURKISH ACCOUNTS OF OUTRAGES for a legal investigation of the Pearl Bryan murder mystery. The myriads of theorizers have acknowledged their inability in the face of the great puzzle. The hope that the suspects would weaken has no existence anywhere to-day. Walling is taciturn. Jackson is willing to make as many alleged confessions about somebody else's crimes as are desired. Jackson says Walling did it and Walling says Jackson did it. This is the shrewdest part of the performance. It effectually bars the door against all further inquiry of either of them. Twenty-four days have elapsed since the murder and nineteen since the arrest of Walling and Jackson, but the police of Indianapolis, Newport, Cincinnati and Greencastle have not been able to forge a good chain of evidence. It is known that Pearl Bryan was killed and that she came here for the purpose of submitting to an operawhether her death resulted from premeditation or accident is still a problematic matter. Persons who pretend to know say that Jackson and Walling are capable of any extreme. The United States officers here have looked into the matter of the correspondreference to the case, and are clearly of the opinion that both men are amenable to the law against sending obscene matter through the mails. Inspector Salmon, of against them has yet been taken, but he is sure a case can be readily made out against Wood, and they are ready to proceed as soon as the matter is referred to them. The penalty may reach five years in the penitentiary. It is said the State authorities will very likely take that course with Wood, believing in that way only can adequate justice be done in his case.

Mr. Lester has been here for some time under orders from Governor Bradley, investigating the evidence in the murder case so as to give some guldance to the Governor regarding the payment of the reward for the apprehension of the murderers. Mr. Lester has notified the officers of Campbell county that his report sent to the Governor has failed to thoroughly satisfy him that the murder was committed in Kentucky, and that therefore the payment of the reward cannot now be made.

Scott Jackson and Alonzo Walling will be tried in Police Court Thursday morning on the charge of being fugitives from justice. If the charge is sustained they will be surrendered to the Kentucky authorities. If they refuse to go Sheriff Plummer will serve the requisition papers. It is expected in that event that the prisoners' attorneys will make a fight against going across the river. If the men are taken over they will be locked up in the Covington jail. The police have spent their energies for the last few days in investigating the story of coachman George Jackson. His statements are rapidly crumbling. A movement is now afoot to pardon Rev. Joshua Barbee, who was sent to the penitentiary for four Barbee had robbed him.

years on George Jackson's charge that George Hill, whom George Jackson claims was with him on the night when he was hired to drive by Walling, says he is not able to remember anything that would throw any light on the case. Jackson says him at Major Widdiffeld's stable after dark on the Monday following the murder and told Jackson that he was present when Jackson accepted the offer of $5 for driving the rockaway to Fort Thomas. Jackson says he does not know who the stranger is. Scott Jackson says that he believes his colored namesake, the coachman, has some foundation for his story. "If he hasn't," asked Jackson, "how could he identify very comfortable, considering the circum-Walling received a letter signed "You Know," from a girl, in which she tells him to bear up, and says that life without him would be a burden. Chemist Dikore and detectives Crim and McDermott went over to Fort Thomas Monday to the scene of the murder, and they will get a sample of the ground where the body was found and it will be compared with that found on Jackson's trousers. Ten cents admission is now being charged to sightseers who visit the scene of the the bloody bushes under which the corpse was found Shoe Dealer Poock, of Newport, is besieged by callers who want to see Pearl Bryan's shoes. A great many persons called at the jail Monday to see the prisoners, but they were invariably refused.

"Lulu" Smith's Latest Denied. CINCINNATI, Feb. 24.-The latest story reported to have been told by May Smith to the effect that a sister of Pearl Bryan knew of the purpose of her visit to this city, has, as the following telegram, signed by Mrs. Mary B. He Will Not Make Affidavit. To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal: I see that my name has been connected with an alleged spiritual seance that was held near this place recently, at which it was claimed that the headless form of Pearl Bryan, the murdered Greencastle girl, appeared and conversed. Now, it is too bad to spoil such a nicely woven story, the most of which certainly originated from the fertile brain of some correspondent. As to my being present at the alleged seance, or making affidavit as to the facts as published, these statements are untrue. I heard Bronnenberg, who is a sort of "crank" upon the subject of spiritualism, dicuss the matter, and, taking his story, wrote it down and gave it to the Anderson Bulletin. My object in giving Bronnenberg's story of the affair was to show the public what ridiculous things the Spiritualists will tell and believe, but when the story went through the press it was distorted and enlarged, and magnified out of all semblance of truth. To begin with, the alleged seance was a private one, and no one was present except the medium and her family. It is presumed, and the most sensible view taken of this wonderful phenomenon is that either the Bronnenbergs had read so much about the murder and so completely absorbed were they with the details pub-lished daily that while in the dark circle their imaginations evolved this wonderful picture, or the relator of this incident had a wonderful dream. Just how a body without a head could materialize and talk is past all human conception. Common sense and reason should convince one of the impossibility of such a conversation from the headless body of poor Pearl Bryan. Of course, believers in spiritualism place the utmost confidence in the story, tion, and calculated to boom spiritualism or advertise the wonderful phenomenon abroad. No, indeed; Justice of the Peace Makepeace will make no affidavit as to the authenticity of such an unreasonable thing. Pearl Bryan's spirit should be permitted to rest in peace.

Burned and Mussulmans Massacred -Letter from Minister Terrell.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.-The Turkish le gation has received from the Sultan a copy of the very exhaustive report of the uprisings in Turkey, made after investigation by the special commissioners of the Sultan. Numerous outbreaks were included in the investigation, but the report indicates that each of these, without exception, were due to seditious plots by Armenians, who thus incited the violent disapproval of the Turks. Extensive outrages and massacres are alleged to have been committeed by Armenians in certain districts of Turkey. The report says: "The following is a list of the villages which were burned by the insurgents in the districts of Zeitoun and Anderin and in the of Yendige-Kalaa: Bechan, 57 Gurtel. 56 houses; Gurtel-87 houses; Lousa Gueurdi, 50 houses; Guechourka, 51 houses; Moussai, 30 houses; Harissan, 40 houses, and several other less important villages. Describing the attack at Marash, the writer says: "Our merciless assailants, on the morning of that fatal day, came upon us like wild beasts. In the place of the 'good morning' of friendly lips we heard the shots of guns and revolvers. Their 'how do you do this morning' was the dread sound of axes breaking in the doors. We saved our lives by fleeing to the house of a Moslem neighbor, but at evening he drove us out into the street and many were slain in the street by bullet, or knife, or ax. Several of our friends were stabbed to death and cut to pieces; some were slain with one blow of the ax on the head; some had their throats cut as if they had been sheep in the butcher nands. My beloved brother was shot with two bullets through the body and then stabbed in the heart. My sister's husband was seized by a soldier. 'Look at me, you dog,' said the murderer. 'Here is your portion,' and with the word he fired a bullet from his revolver into the poor fellow's breast. Our homes looked like the dens of wild beasts, for the fragments of dead bodies lay everywhere.

"My husband had to flee and leave me and the children," she says. "For seven days we saw nothing of him, and we nearly died of hunger and cold. There were not friends to 'vhose doors I could go and beg my bread. Not a neighbor remained to whom I could appeal. Where could I get food for my little ones? Where clothing? Where a bed to keep them from the cold? was as one driven crazy. Would to God the sun had never risen on that day. Would that this year covered with blood of the innocent ones had never come into the number of years. For weeks we lay in the chopped straw of a stable, with neither bed nor bedding. Just at present we are covering our little ones at night with some rags of old carpet. The earth seemed turned into iron that it did not open and swallow us. CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 24.-A letter from a prominent Armenian of Shepick, near Harpoot, Turkey, to a missionary's son in tals city gives an account of the plundering and massacre at Shepick, on Dec. 1. The letter tells how, after four hundred Kurds had demanded and received tribute, they plundered and burned the houses. The writer continues: "At nightfall of the eighth day they came to where we were gathered on the bank of the stream, and, with lanterns, picked out forty-five young men, saying the government wanted them

Knowing what would befall them, the young men asked for an hour's grace, then prayed and sang and bade their parents farewell. They were taken to a desolate place half an hour distant and ordered to change their religion. One and all re-fused. The Kurds and Turks then massacred forty of them, five making their escape in the darkness and biding in a cave for twelve days. My son Samuel was on of the five, but my youngest son, twenty-two years old, was killed. We have no food, no houses, no pedelething. Already ten have died of cold, hunger and sickness."
